

RAILWAY JUNCTION AT INNSBRUCK AND VIADUCT OVER AVISIO RIVER BLASTED BY LARGE FORCES OF ALLIED BOMBERS

Flying Fortresses Thoroughly Cover Railyards, Turntables, Roundhouse Terminal 35 Miles South of Brenner Pass — All Bombers Escorted by "Lightnings" Which Return Unscathed to Bases.

ALGIERS, Dec. 16.—(INS)—Large forces of Allied bombers heavily attacked the railway junction at Innsbruck, Austria, 20 miles north of Brenner Pass, today, and also blasted the viaduct over the Avisio River and the Bolzano rail yards 35 miles south of the pass.

It was the first time that Innsbruck, key to the railroad network linking Italy, Austria and Germany, has been attacked by Allied bombers. Flying Fortresses thoroughly covered the railyards, turntables, roundhouse terminal and adjacent war production areas with high explosives.

Fortresses also blasted the Bolzano railyards, while Liberators hit the Avisio viaduct, a few miles north of Trento, some 35 miles south of Bolzano.

All the targets were well covered with bombs. All of the bombers were escorted by Lightnings, which returned unscathed to their bases despite the heavy flak encountered at Bolzano.

Review Deferments Of Brewster Employees

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Review of the draft deferments of all employees of the Brewster Aeronautical Corp. and cancellation of the deferments of all workers not engaged in productive activities were recommended today by a House Naval Affairs sub-committee.

The committee, which for two months has been investigating the failure of Brewster to produce planes in quantity, declared that the major responsibility rested with "short-sighted union leaders" who "impeded production by strikes, slowdowns, work stoppages and organized loafing."

In consideration of the national emergency, the committee did not recommend immediate termination of the Navy's contract with Brewster, but gave the company one last chance to get production rolling. At the first new outbreak of labor trouble, the Navy's contract should be "peremptorily cancelled," the report said.

The Navy and the company were told that the contract between Brewster and Local 365, United Auto Workers of America (C. I. O.), should be revised "so as to eliminate the restrictive power of the union over Brewster."

The committee exonerated the Navy of blame except for its failure to "take prompt and vigorous steps to remedy the difficulties," found that management at the plant had been "consistently weak," and directed its scathing criticism toward labor leaders who "insisted upon the exercise of prerogatives which they never should have had."

"In this they do no service to their country or to labor," the report said.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Lieut. Robert B. Conroy, Doylestown, who has been flying a Thunderbolt in England since early in September, has received the Air Medal.

The news was received in one of Lt. Conroy's letters to his wife, Mrs. Mary (Loram) Conroy, who is living in New London, Conn. The lieutenant also revealed that he has received several ribbons for service.

It has been known by his family for some time that he has been taking part in the air raids over Europe. In a letter received by his wife from Mrs. Conroy learned that her fiercest husband was on raids over Europe when the temperature at the high altitude at which the Thunderbolts fly was 50 or more below zero. He remarked when she spoke to him about it some time later that he had not gotten warm yet.

The first big Christmas party of the 1943 Yuletide season for kiddies was staged under the auspices of the Loyal Republican Club of Bucks County at the club's headquarters in Buckingham.

Five hundred children were made merry during an interesting two-hour program, with a visit from Santa Claus. Those grown-ups who were fortunate enough to squeeze in say they had as much fun as the youngsters and it was the best Christmas party the club has ever given.

WANTS ANOTHER CRACK AT GERMANS, HE SAYS

Former French Soldier, Now A Yank, Eager To Get Back to Continent

TO FINISH OFF GRUDGE

By William W. Wade
WITH A U. S. ARMORED FORCE UNIT. Somewhere in England, Dec. 16.—(INS)—Pvt. Jacques Boutinon, 26, born in Cognac, France, and later resident of Norwell, Mass., today is more than eager to get back to the continent and finish off a grudge he bears against the Wehrmacht.

In 1940 Boutinon was a member of the French army. He participated in the humiliating retreat from the Marne to southern France in that confusing trek when France seemed to have nothing and the Germans seemed to have all the tanks, guns and planes there were in the world.

He witnessed the morale-shattering fifth column activity which perplexed the country. He carried dead babies out of a train.

He was captured and escaped. He wandered about unoccupied France for months half starved before he was able to return to his mother, sister and brother in the United States.

Now Boutinon is a member of one of the best equipped American fighting units, an outfit which may well be called upon to help liberate France. He and his fellow tankers expect to give the Germans a dose of their own medicine, bringing the weight of Allied armor against an extended, tired foe in a way it has never been brought before.

Boutinon as well as all these tankmen share a great pride in this powerful, heavily armed striking force and this French-born soldier is especially convinced that its artillery, machine-guns, mortars and other arms can cut the Nazi supermen down to size.

"I love this outfit," Boutinon said. "I don't think I'd be in anything else."

"I was captured in France by an

BUCKS COUNTY SCHOOL AUTHORITIES GREATLY PLEASED WITH CO-OPERATION GIVEN TO FARMERS BY THE STUDENTS

"All Bucks County high schools have just resumed normal sessions after two to three weeks suspension of regular sessions to permit students to work on nearby farms," said the county superintendent of schools in Bucks County, today. "The fall season in which students in unprecedented numbers helped the farmers, has come to a close after helping to harvest crops valued at several hundred thousand dollars. While every high school in Bucks contributed a large number of students, Falls, Buckingham, Richboro, Upper Southampton, and Newtown high schools suspended regular high school sessions from one week to three weeks. In the two weeks of November the assistance to the Bucks County farmers reached its peak when more than 2,000 students were helping in the harvesting of late fall vegetable crops."

"Farmers competed for school labor as other labor could not be found. One farmer, in appreciation of the work of the high school students, bought all the ice cream the students could eat after they had spent a week on his farm. Other farmers brought hot chocolate or cocoa for the student workers out into the fields on cold days. The school children earned either $40 an hour or worked for $10 a bushel. On an average they earned over $3.00 for a regular school day. Some experienced boys earned over $6.00 a day. The farmers transported the pupils from the high schools to the farms and returned them in time for them to meet regular school bus schedules."

"Many high schools reported that all students assisted two or more days. In some cases several students remained behind and worked on school projects. "The harvesting of carrots, to-matoes, turnips, potatoes, parsnips, apples, peaches, and celery were the main items in which students assisted. The most difficult crop for the students was turnips from which resulted many minor cuts from the knives used to cut off the turnip tops."

"The use of teachers as supervisors this year provided a much more satisfactory program than exercised in the two previous years in which the Bucks County students were used on a large scale."

"The fact that some farmers waited until heavy frosts came before seeking assistance handicapped the program. Students had to work in muddy fields on several cold days. If they had been called earlier in November conditions would have been far more favorable and satisfactory. The use of one class or section on one day and other classes on another day did not prove nearly as satisfactory as the use of the same group of students four or five days at one time."

"Newtown high school received an unproportionately heavy load in the program, where, since school opened in September, many calls for help were constantly met during the first three months, while most high schools were called upon for help for less than one month."

"Both Amos Satterthwaite, in charge of Emergency Farm Labor, and William F. Greenwalt, County Extension Agent, were delighted with the cooperation provided by the school authorities in every high school."

Hulmeville Principal Given Prize at P. T. A. Meeting

HULMEVILLE, Dec. 16.—The prize of $5 in war stamps, given by the Supplee-Willis-Jones Co. to the winner in the quiz contest conducted during the past month among members of Hulmeville-Middletown Parent-Teacher Association, was awarded last evening to Principal Frank Binder. The presentation was made by Mrs. Willard Bartoe, president of the association, at the December session in the school house.

Cafeteria matters occupied the attention of the organization for a time. Report was made that the stove for heating water had been installed, the stove and some parts being donated by members, as were also services of installation. Mrs. Roger Burns reported the sum of $26.42 in the cafeteria account. The luncheons are discontinued temporarily due to cases of illness among some of the most active workers.

Miss Dorothy Schulman was in charge of the records of the meeting.

The association voted to commend South Langhorne school board for affording pre-school education to the children of the area through operation of a kindergarten. A localite, Mrs. Frank Binder, is substituting as teacher there during the illness of the instructress in charge.

The P. T. A. decided to purchase two special lights for use in case of "black-outs" which might occur during meetings or other functions of the organization.

Miss Margaret Perry told of plans for gifts for the children of the school at Christmas time, the P. T. A. to pay for such.

Attendance award was given to the first grade, taught by Mrs. Charlotte Walsh.

The group then adjourned to the cafeteria, where Mrs. Howard Johnson and Mrs. Henry Seales served ice cream, crackers, and coffee. John Crowley impersonated Santa Claus, distributing gifts which members had taken to the party.

Fleetwings Workers To See "Movies" at Noon

Unanimous in their enthusiastic reception of two trial motion pictures shown at Fleetwings aircraft plants during the past week, workers here are to have a regular schedule of film showings supplied by the Army and Navy and available only to war workers.

Planned for all three plants, the movies will be shown during the noon-hour at stated intervals on scheduled days. First of all entering, the films are highly informational and inspiring with excellent commentaries and sound effects. One of them planned for future showing will be a technicolor vehicle, Fortress in the Sky, telling a story of planes for which Fleetwingers build parts.

In the line-up planned are these exciting stories: The Battle of Midway, Baptism of Fire, Communique No. 1, All-American and Mary Smith American, the latter a poignant story of a woman who found her wartime place on the assembly lines in the aircraft industry.

The films already shown and highly praised were Combat Report and The Arm Behind the Army.

NEW PENALTY TO BE ADDED TO UNPAID TAXES

President of Bucks County School Board Explains New Legislation

MILLER IS RE-ELECTED

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 16.—"Delinquent school taxpayers will face a ½ per cent penalty January 1," according to Walter S. Miller, president of the Bucks County School Board. A law passed by the Legislature at its last session advanced the date of penalty on current school taxes so that one half of one percent is added the first of each month, beginning January 1st.

Any delinquent school tax payer can avoid the penalty by paying before the end of this month.

LATEST NEWS BULLETINS

Churchill Ill With Pneumonia

London.—The alarming disclosure that 69-year-old Prime Minister Winston Churchill has been stricken with pneumonia somewhere in the Middle East was made to the House of Commons today.

Deputy Prime Minister Maj. Richard Clement Attlee made the announcement and despite his assurance that the Premier's condition "is as satisfactory as can be expected," an immediate depression was noted on London Stock Exchange and public apprehension over his illness was apparent everywhere.

Churchill suffered an earlier attack of pneumonia only last February. The illness left a scar on his left lung. For a brief time only he responded to his doctor's orders for a curtailed regimen, and in recent months had continued his round-the-clock activities and addiction to large, black super-strong cigars.

The finest medical authorities of Great Britain are in attendance upon the Prime Minister at his sickbed, Attlee announced. In addition, the new wonder-drug penicillin, is now available for use if needed.

Mrs. Churchill is in London. But his son Randolph and his daughter Sarah, who were present with him at the Cairo and Teheran conferences which immediately preceded his illness, are believed to be at his bedside.

War Now Entering Crucial Phases

London.—The Algiers radio reported today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean theater, had messaged his troops that "the war is now entering its crucial phases."

The broadcast quoted Eisenhower as saying—"I ask each soldier to do his utmost."

In London informed observers believed the message might herald an all-out Allied offensive in Italy.

SIEGE OF RABAU

The terrific American pounding of Rabaul would seem to be coming very close to neutralizing that once powerful Japanese air and sea base on New Britain.
When the Japanese spread southward to the approaches to Australia, Rabaul was turned into the biggest springboard south of Truk, 800 miles to the north in the Carolines.

From Rabaul, the Japanese launched not only supply ships, but warships as well. And its six airfields constituted a constant menace. General MacArthur's forces have moved in on Rabaul gradually. With the Solomons cleared, American bombers have concentrated on the giant Jap base.

Now comes news that naval activity in the area has dropped considerably, indicating that the Japanese are finding it almost impossible to continue their supply lines to the island. In addition, it is reported that Rabaul's aircraft now consists mostly of fighters, instead of bombers.

The Japs at Rabaul are clearly on the defensive. When Rabaul finally falls, it will be a major Allied victory in the South Pacific.
General MacArthur can then turn his eyes 800 miles to the north—to Truk.

DANGEROUS ASSIGNMENT

Some day after the war is ended, someone will write a story of the writers of war stories—the war correspondents. Their careers are not the romantic epics pictured in the movies, or the moderately safe "adventures" of the old-style reporters who followed the armies. Most of the work is as exhausting and as dangerous as that of the armed forces.

So far, the British and American corps of war correspondents has suffered 115 casualties, a heavy loss considering the relatively small size of the group. Of these 27 have been killed, 10 reported missing (hence probably killed), 33 wounded and 45 made prisoners of war.

An illustration of the risks run by the correspondents to bring to millions of readers first-hand accounts of engagements is provided by a recent raid on Berlin by the Royal Air Force. Five reporters went on the raid. Only two returned. The others were shot down, and their fate is unknown.

One of the victims was an American, Lowell Bennett, a correspondent of International News Service who represented the American press on this hazardous assignment. INS had been chosen as the agency to supply the American news representative, and Bennett tossed a coin with a colleague to determine who would go. Both wanted the assignment, but it was an assignment with death. An Australian newsman and one other correspondent also made a one-way flight.

Mr. Bennett was the seventeenth American correspondent to be killed or reported missing since this war began. The United States, therefore, has suffered about half of the fatalities among the news corps.

Miles Fitzmaurice, of the "Sea-

Virginia.

Cpl. James Robinson and Cpl.

THE CAPITOL WHIRL

A Digest of Things Political Occurring At Harrisburg

By International News Service

HARRISBURG, Dec. 16—(INS)—For the first time in the history of the 10-year-old liquor monopoly in Pennsylvania, women have worked in State Liquor Stores although a 1933 act specifically prohibits them. They were hired by the board to help store clerks initiate the temporary liquor rationing system now in effect in Pennsylvania. The law apparently was skirted by not permitting them to issue the ration card from behind the counters and by making an interpretation of the law. Auditor General F. Clair Ross, watchdog of the State's funds, approved a payroll of $7942 for 151 employees issuing ration cards during the last two weeks of November.

Only nine of the 50 State Senators have served in the General Assembly since the Democrats swept the State in 1934 while an equal number have seen service since 1936. . . . Senior Democratic Senators are Edward J. Coleman, of Lackawanna; John H. Dent, of Westmoreland; B. B. McGinnis, of Allegheny, the minority floor leader; and John J. McCreash and Harry Shapiro, both of Philadelphia. . . . Senior Republican Senators are Leroy E. Chapman, of Warren; Charles R. Mallory, of Blair; Charles H. Ealy, of Somerset; and George Woodward, of Philadelphia, the dean of the upper chamber, who has served since 1919.

John R. Ellington, special advisor to the American Law Institute, has advanced a four-point program for State agencies attempting to curb juvenile delinquency. . . . In Federal Probation, published by the administrative office of the U. S. Court, Ellington emphasized that State agencies "should serve as the State GIQ for prevention and correction."

He advocated (1) stimulation of preventive action as well as State aid, (2) establishment of corrective standards, facilities and procedures, (3) cooperation with the courts in segregating juveniles for treatment, and (4) proper supervision of convicted offenders requiring institutional training.

Ellington stated that "to reclaim the youthful offender is to deal the most direct blow at adult crime."

The shortage of trained personnel to aid juvenile offenders may be offset by a "bold far-reaching approach, catching the public imagination." . . . An immediate revision of penal procedures would not be practicable, Ellington stated, because it was a "slow process of organization and education."

In conclusion, he said that any effective social advance requires two things: public insistence and a practical program. . . . "Many straws in the wind indicate the public is weary of a correctional system that fails to correct, disturbed at the wastage of lives that could be turned into productive citizenship," he asserted. "It is now the time for legislatures and administrators to cease inching forward and step out."

FLATFOOT FLATS

COLUMBUS, O.—(INS)—Columbus city cops don't care too much for fire rationing regulations. Recently two patrolmen who operate

Chief Otto Kaffits to make a written report explaining why they ruined two tires by driving them flat. Replacements for the tires can only be obtained by sending reports to the ration board, officials said.

County School Authorities Pleased With Co-operation Given Farmers By Students

The George School and the Solebury School for boys also provided labor on Bucks County Farms. Many consolidated elementary schools cooperated in releasing pupils for farm labor.

"The school authorities frequently visited the students while they were helping on farms. The whole program was not without its benefits to the participating students, many of whom had never before earned any money. Some classes used all earnings for class projects. This was particularly true at Buckingham in the apple picking season. All participating boys and girls have also a deeper appreciation of some of the problems of Bucks County farmers."

Wants Another Crack At Germans, He Says

armored column and now I want to do some catching myself. Yes, I'd like to go back to France, even if it's the hard way. I know what I can get out of the people over there and I know I'll be welcome."

Boutinon was in Massachusetts in December, 1939, when he was called to join the French army. He went back to France, entered an infantry outfit and trained north of Bordeaux.

His division, he said, was supposed to be mechanized but it went into action near Epernay with horse-drawn machine guns, anti-guns, anti-tank and five or six trucks. Each man, he added, had a bare three clips of bullets for his rifle, there were no hand grenades.

"Some of us," Boutinon stated, "took the grenades from dead Germans and used them."

It wasn't long before Boutinon's division was part of that great ront which was swept into southern France by the German advance.

"We didn't know what was going on," he said. "Civilians blocked the roads. There were no planes overhead except the enemy's. There were no tanks except Jerry's. There was terrific fifth column activity and we heard of lights being used to signal the Luftwaffe at night in many villages."

"Finally we were back again near Bordeaux and they came down on us. It was July 4, 1940. Those in the front of the German column had French uniforms, French guns and French motorcycles. They told us to let them go through and we did. Then the rest of the column came along and they had the green felt of the German army all right. There wasn't anything for us to do but surrender."

"They told us the war was over and they took us into a town and stuck us—6,000 of us—in a barracks built for 2,000 men. We were fed mouldy bread and meat containing maggots."

After a while Boutinon escaped. It wasn't very difficult, he said, because the Germans had too much to do to guard the French soldiers very effectively and they tried to convince the French that they were prisoners of honor.

Boutinon slipped out of the barracks one night under the cover of the blackout.

"I knew the town well," he said,

"and I just went to the first house I could find before meeting a German patrol. The people there gave me civilian clothes and told me how to get to the demarkation line between the occupied and unoccupied zones."

"I followed their instructions and when I thought I was near the line I went to a farm and asked how to get across. The farmer fed me and told me where the sentries were. Then I went through the bushes across the line almost under the nose of a German soldier."

"I had a trench knife with me and I could have killed him but I didn't want to make any noise."

Boutinon spent months wandering around unoccupied France, striving to return to the United States. He went to Marseilles where he was told that his papers had been lost. During the two months he waited there he slept in the bathroom of a hotel.

Once he was arrested for speaking English and a pro-British judge told him to be more careful and sent him to jail for 24 hours. Finally he got a berth on a tramp steamer going to Martinique and from there he had no difficulty in getting back to the States.

"I arrived in New York," he reported, "wearing a British uniform. I had bought in France from an English soldier. I normally weigh 140 pounds but I was down to 110 then, I hadn't seen a potato in five months."

"I had seen a lot, escaping prisoners, underground mail passed in bags of coal and milk cans. I had pulled dead children from a train—that's when I really began to hate Germans."

"They were snobbish and arrogant. Many Americans don't know what they're like but some of the boys that have been to North Africa do."

"I guess the Germans still have that feeling of superiority that has to be banged out of them and nothing else."

Boutinon is ready to start hanging any day now.

by October 1, they usually wait until Spring just prior to the time the penalties were first added."

The tax collectors do not need to notify the delinquent taxpayers of the penalty, and even if the tax notices sent out last Summer did not mention the new date, the county board was informed, the law is effective just the same.

Besides studying the new law on tax penalties, the county board, at its recent meeting, re-elected Walter S. Miller, Parkland, president, and Walter Solly, Ivyland, and Howard Kooker, Quakertown, as vice presidents.

Plans were consummated for a school directors' meeting in the Doylestown High School auditorium on April 19, at which time a panel discussion on juvenile delinquency will be featured.

The next meeting of the county board will be a joint session with the Bucks County Principals' Association at the Doylestown Inn on January 18. At that time representatives of Bucks county's leading industries will be the guests.

might have also driven a deer out to sea.

As soon as the Philadelphia saw he could not bluff his way out of a jail sentence after saying he did not have the money to pay a fine, he reluctantly left his door rifle and binoculars which, he said, cost $125 and $60 each.

Six students of vocational agriculture in the New Hope-Solebury High School have completed a total of 12 projects during the past year. These six boys have made a total labor income of $1110.07.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE
The Battle of the Atlantic, said to be depicted in its full and actual violence, is dramatized in "Corvette K-225" coming today to the Grand Theatre. Filmed with the co-operation of the Royal Canadian Navy and produced by Howard Hawks, the picture tells the first screen story of the valiant corvettes, believed to be the most effective U-boat destroyers of World War 2.

Randolph Scott is the star. He appears in the role of a Canadian Naval Commander, a portrayal described as heroically two-fisted. James Brown, Noah Beery, Jr., Barry Fitzgerald and Andy Devine are others in the unusually large cast which also features Fuzzy Knight and Richard Lane.

BRISTOL THEATRE
Ann Savage was delighted when Columbia Pictures cast her in a featured role in their latest "Blondie" comedy, "Footlight Glamour," in which she may currently be seen, along with Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake, at the Bristol Theatre.

For Ann feels—and not without good reason—that an appearance in one of these films is a definite step toward stardom.

Have You A Room To Rent?

We Have a Victory Worker Ready to Move In

The production front is just as important to victory as the fighting front. In order to keep up production of Plexiglas, Crystalite, Lethane, Primal, Lykopen and other vital war materials, we must bring in workers from outside areas—and they must have living quarters.

If you have a spare room for a man or woman in Bristol or vicinity, here is a chance to help the war effort and add to your income at the same time. Phone Bristol 875—ask for Personnel Dept. If you have registered your room with us, be sure to phone us whenever it is vacant, so we can send you a new roomer promptly.

Yuletide Music Presented As Republican Women Meet

With guests in attendance, members of the Lower Bucks County Council of Republican Women conducted a special program at their Yuletide meeting in the Travel Club home on Tuesday evening.

The music was in large part given by students of Bristol high school under the direction of Miss Eleanor B. Kozinski. Instrumental and vocal selections carrying out the Christmas spirit were announced. The entire gathering sang carols; and a Christmas story written by Rufus Jones, entitled "The Shepherd Who Missed the Manger," was read by Mrs. David M. Sheerer, to a symphony harp accompaniment by Miss Winifred V. Tracy.

Mrs. John W. Cooper, of Pineville, past president of Bucks County Council of Republican Women, and a director of the state council, was a guest on this occasion, and addressed the gathering. In her message she mentioned the duty of each as good citizens, urging all to think about the Christmas spirit as it is enjoyed under this form of government.

The hospitality committee was in charge of the social hour.

Almighty and Eternal Father, we praise Thee that Thou art a God of Love. We thank Thee that Thy love is so strong as to send thine only begotten Son, Jesus Christ, into the world, that we through Him might have life. Give us faith, O God, to see that even in the midst of trial and difficulty, Thou art still loving us. May we believe that all things work together for good to them that return their love to Thee. Enable us to so consecrate ourselves in Thy service that this assurance might be ours. Through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

URGE HUNTERS TO FILE GAME-KILL REPORTS EARLY

Deadline for Submitting Such is Set at January 15th

MANY DID SO IN 1942

Seventh Year Reports Have Had To Be Filed or Forfeit Paid

In an announcement today Game officials urged all hunters to file their 1943 game-kill reports immediately after the Christmas mailing rush, in order to co-operate with postal authorities during their heavy mailing period.

The deadline for submitting these reports is January 15, 1944, but the Commission is anxious that hunters submit them promptly in order to cut down the expense involved in sorting and tabulating them at the Harrisburg office.

Officials said 96.4% of the licensed hunters co-operated in 1942 by filing their reports as required, the vast majority of them having mailed them long before the deadline.

This is the seventh year that hunters have been required by law to report their kill or forfeit a $2.00 penalty, and the Commission is hopeful that a new record may be established for 1943, without the necessity for imposing any fines or incurring any additional expense to remind delinquents.

Officials pointed out that there are two distinct advantages in filing reports promptly, namely, avoiding the possibility of mislaying the report, and probably overlooking the matter entirely, and assuring more accurate reports immediately while the season's accomplishments are fresh.

If the report stub, attached to the license has been lost it will be satisfactory to use a plain postal card or a piece of paper provided the hunting license number (including Serial Letter) is given, along with the name and address of the individual. Every hunter is required to file a report, regardless of his success.

50 Killed, 50 Injured in Train Wreck

Washington—The American Red Cross received word from Atlanta headquarters this morning that there are an estimated 50 persons killed and 50 injured in the Atlantic Coast Line wreck near Fayetteville, N. C. Thirteen bodies have already been removed, the Red Cross reported, and three badly smashed coaches have not yet been entered.

The accident occurred when two Atlantic Coast Line passenger trains collided while passing one another along a double track, first reports said. All cars on both trains were believed to have been derailed.

Plane Sinks; Two Fliers Safe

Philadelphia—Two Navy fliers escaped injury today when their plane crashed and sank in the Atlantic Ocean near Cold Springs Harbor, five miles north of Cape May, N. J.

The plane was on a routine flight from the Naval Air Station at Cape May. Before it sank, the pilot and radioman, the only ones aboard, managed to launch a rubber life raft. They were picked up a short time later by a rescue boat from the Cape May Station.

NINE LITTLE PIGS

AKRON, O.—(INS)—"And every-where that Mary went the lamb was sure to go." Well it's that way, too, with A. Enfinger, an Akron man who raises pigs and holds a war production job with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. Al started for work the other morning, but half way to the plant had to go back. His nine pigs had trailed after him, all in a row.

The War at A Gance

Cherkassy and came within three miles of the vitally important railroad junction town of Smela. Still other Russian forces closed in on Kirovograd, 75 miles south of Cherkassy, despite vicious German counter-attacks.

A Moscow radio broadcast declared that this winter Russian forces will "hit the Germans harder" than they have ever been hit before. The broadcast said significantly:

"Snowstorms, frosts and howling winds are welcomed by the Red army. We beat the enemy in the previous two winters and shall batter him to death in the winter of 1943."

Sixteen more towns fell into the hands of Russian forces and they swept on in the direction of Smela. Several thousand Nazis were slain during the course of yesterday's fighting, while more than a hundred tanks were destroyed and thirty-eight planes were shot down.

Reports from the Allied front lines in Italy indicated that the fall of the German Adriatic anchor of Ortona, lying almost due west across the Italian peninsula from Rome, could be expected momentarily. Allied airmen declared the town was in flames, an indication that the Nazis were preparing to evacuate. The British Eighth Army was said to be closing in on Ortona after smashing desperate German counter-attacks.

In the Southwest Pacific, a force of more than one hundred American heavy, medium and attack bombers carried out their most devastating raid of the war in this area when they poured 356 tons of bombs on the Japanese base at Arawe on New Britain Island.

After the bombs had been dropped, some of the American pilots wheeled and strafed enemy positions with more than 174,000 pounds of ammunition.

The Japs, caught completely by surprise, failed to attempt any interception and the entire American raiding force returned unharmed to its base. Japanese positions at Gasmata, New Britain, were plastered for the second day in a row, while enemy forces on Bougainville Island in the northern Solomons also felt the wrath of American airmen.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the United States Pacific Fleet, revealed that American Liberator bombers had again blasted enemy installations on Tarao Island in the Marshalls. Fifteen Jap fighter planes rose into the air to give battle to the Liberators. One was definitely shot down, five probably destroyed and five damaged. Three Liberators suffered minor damage in the raid, results of which were not disclosed.

The Japs again were reported to have attacked American positions in the Gilbert Islands without causing any serious damage or casualties.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

SMARTER WOMEN and the older girls are now protecting their clothing by wearing raincoats. The "Pell Mell" kind are considered ultra-fashionable.

Have you seen them? March to the 2nd fl. Raincoat Dept. in the Snellenburg Store and buy one for yourself or a Christmas friend. Strictly tailored of water-repellent fabric and in becoming tones of red, green, black or gold, with gay peasant embroideries on the pockets. No straps, but complete back panels for added warmth and trimmer styling. Jumpers alone, in sizes 10 to 18, are priced at $7.95. The sweet blouses, in the same sizes, are priced at $5.98 each. They come in white, red, green and gold. They, too, have peasant touches and go perfectly with the jumpers. You must see these outfits to fully appreciate them. (2nd fl.)

MASSIVE MIRRORS, the regal sort to put over mantels, davenport, in halls, over buffets, etc., are to be had at a ridiculously reasonable price in the 4th fl. Mirror Dept. of the Snellenburg Store. There's something glamorous about a gift mirror, whether it's a family gift to your own home or one to a friend, for Christmas. These large mirrors—34 by 36 inches—have handsome, enduring frames well gilded. Some are oblong, others curved. I adore them. So will you. $14.95.

GIFT SHIRTS, All-purpose shirts, the kind the men are quite fond of. Preferred big plaids of tan, blue, or green, are now displayed in that excellent Men's Furnishing Dept. on the first floor of the Snellenburg Store. The material—firm gabardine—is Sanforized for non-shrinking. Well tailored and made for wearing with or without ties. Suitable for office, home, or shop. Sizes 14 to 17. $2.95. In this same department is the famous Snellenburg tie collection from equally famous tie-makers at only $1 each.

EXCITING NORTH POLE! Don't fail to take the children to visit this highly entertaining feature in the Toy Department of the Snellenburg Store! Real Eskimos and their sledge dogs are to be seen, and lots of other "Polish" things besides! There is a very tiny admission fee into the "Village" for both adults and children, but it's so good that some of the youngsters want to go every time they come to town! There are still plenty of toys in the surrounding Toy Department, and even adult gifts can be bought at the good Game Counter. The little folks love the particularly amiable Snellenburg Santa Claus. (4th fl.)

WARM UP! JACKETS! For men, Fabrics ones with or without hoods at $16.50 to $39.25 and grand real leather ones, $12.95 to $45. All to be had in an unusual number of styles in the Snellenburg Sporting Goods Dept., 3rd floor. So, don't go hunting everywhere—you'll find what you want in this well-stocked department. A range of sizes from 38 to 48.

CHRISTMAS SUITS for wee folks. Actually in corduroy—it's hard to get—for little boys or girls three to six years. The cute long trousers or slacks have bib fronts and adjustable straps. Atop of these can be worn the accompanying double-breasted, long-sleeved jackets when it's chilly. The corduroy is that nice fine whale sort, and the suits are in warm reds, flatter blues. Put a couple under the tree! The Snellenburg Infant Dept., Chestnut St. Store, 2nd fl.

... in Philadelphia, that year, a great brew "came out"

New York's Unique Central Park was opened in 1860

New York's Central Park and Philadelphia's oldest brew share the same birthday year. For over 80 years they've been giving pleasure to great numbers of people—each in its own inimitable way. Of both Central Park and Schmidt's brew it can be truly said: None better since 1860.
